How to Play

Every case has suspects, possible weapons and places. Each suspect had exactly one weapon and was in exactly one place.

Read the clues and mark the grid: put an X where something is impossible and a circle where it must be true. When a row has only one empty square left, that one is the answer.

Once you know where everyone was, the victim's location tells you who did it.

Cases start easy with three suspects and get harder. Solutions are in the back.

Case 1: Murder at Blackwood Castle
